

“Telos” (Fann) Art Director, WHOSMiNG Nominated for Best Recording Package at the 65th GRAMMYs® Awards.

Taipei, Taiwan (November 21, 2022) – Taiwanese-born singer-songwriter, Fann芳怡's latest album Telos, and its art director, WHOSMiNG is nominated for the Best Recording Package at the 65th GRAMMYs® awards.

The packaging is designed by visual artist WHOSMiNG. Telos refers to a civilization at the heart of the earth. The pronunciation of the word “Telos” in Chinese is “Tao Le Shi,” while “Tao(桃)” means peaches, an element which is incorporated in the packaging design, presenting the album as a gift box of peaches wrapped in paper with a texture that reminds people of traditional protective fruit wrapping. The “ingredients list” at the back refers to the musical works and is a metaphor for the different emotional experiences that appear throughout our lives that have all become nutrients for growth, cleverly alluding to the central messages of the album.

Telos is Wind Music's nominated album for the second consecutive year after Pakelang.

The 65th GRAMMYs® awards will be held at the Crypto.com Arena in Los Angeles, CA on February 5, 2023.
